

March 13. 1717.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 16.

Paris, March 7.

ON the first Instant, the Faculty of Divinity received a Letter of Privy Seal, ordering them to erase out of their Registers the Conclusion of the 16th of January, which imports, that they would goe to the Cardinal de Noailles, that they should adhere to his Sentence as much as he should himself stand-him to Truth and Justice, &c. After some Debates belonging to the Business of the Day, it was resolv'd that they should write to M. de la Vrillière, to desire Advice of the Prince Regent, which was carried by a small Majority, against the Opinion that a Deputation should immediately be made to the Prince, to represent that they were very much surpriz'd at the Receipt of that Privy Seal, the Motive thereto being erroneous, namely, That the Conclusion was made contrary to the Prohibition of the last Precedent. The Assembly then adjourn'd to the 5th, on which Day the Syndic open'd it by reading the Letters written by Order of the Faculty to M. de la Vrillière, to represent that it was a thing unheard of for a Faculty such as that of Paris, to erase out of their Registers a Conclusion unanimously made and confirm'd in all its Forms; which Letter was approv'd of. On the 4th, the Cardinal de Noailles went to the Palace, to represent the Consequences of that Letter of Privy Seal; and there has since been no Talk of it. While the Syndic was reading the abovementioned Letter, Advice was given, that four Bishops were come; these were the Bishops of Mirepoix, Senez, Montpelier, and Bologna, and six Doctors went out to receive them. The Bishop of Mirepoix declar'd the Occasion of their coming in a Latin Speech full of Energy; after which, the Bishop of Senez read an Act of Appeal to a future General Council, which was sign'd the Monday before by the four Bishops. This Act contains 7 or 8 large Leaves, and was written with much Strength and Dignity. The Bishops set forth the Impression which the Constitution has made upon the Minds of the People, the Troubles and Commotions that it has been the Cause of, together with the Occasions it has given of Joy to the Enemies of the Church, of Insults from Libertines and Heretics, Perplexity to the new Converts, and Triumph to the Favourers of corrupt Morals. After making Protestations of their strict Adherence to the Holy See, and letting forth the Efforts they have made for three Years past, to induce the Pope to acknowledge that the Truth had been concealed from him, and having suggested, they have Recourse to the Appeal to a future General Council, after the Example of their Predecessors, and in following the Road which Tradition from the Holy Fathers has traced out to them. Of all the Motives that has determin'd them to take this Measure, they have chosen these Nine. 1. That the Condemnation of some of the 101 Propositions, as the 9th, 91st, and 92d, shakes the Foundations of the Hierarchy, the Rights of the Bishops, and the Liberties of the Kingdom. 2. That in all this Affair, the lawful Authority of the Bishops, and the Liberties of the Kingdom, have been violated in many Points, not only by the Manner wherein the Constitution was form'd, but also by the Brief of the 17th of March 1714. 3. That Propositions are consider'd, as the 87th, and 88th, which express the Doctrine and Spirit of the Holy Canons concerning Repentance; on which depends the legitimate Administration of the Sacrament of Penance, and the Eternal Salvation of the Faithful. 4. That the Constitution overturns the Foundations of Christian Morality, and the first and greatest Commandment, namely the Love of God, by condemning Terms which express the necessity of that Love; whether for intirely changing the Heart, or for bringing all our Actions to God. 5. That many other Propositions concerning Charity are condemn'd, where that Term is taken, as it is ordinarily in the Scripture and the Fathers, even for Actual Love. 6. That, from the Faithful of all Ages Sexes and Conditions, is taken away, the Light they might draw from the Holy Scripture, which according to St. Thomas is Common for all. 7. That divers Propositions are condemn'd, some whereof present to the Mind, but what the Prophets, the Apostles and the Holy Fathers have taught us concerning the difference of the two Alliances; others that contain nothing but what is contain'd according to St. Augustine in the 11th Article of the Creed, namely that the Effect of the Will of the Almighty is not hinder'd by the Will of any Creature. Others, in fine, which contain the same Doctrine that the Holy Doctors, and the Sovereign Pontiffs have taught upon several Points; among the rest, concerning that necessary Assistance for every Action, which draws its Efficacy from the Omnipotence of God, and from the Sovereign Domaine which the Divine Majesty Exercises upon the Wills of Men, as upon all the other Creatures under Heaven. 8. That the Constitution scatters without Distinction, the most terrible Censures upon Propositions, a great Number whereof are expel'd in the Terms even of the Scripture, Councils, Popes, and Holy Fathers. Such is the 27th Proposition, and the 18th. 9. That the Words of the Author of the Reflections, have been perverted to a contrary Sense, and have been unfaithfully extracted; the Author disclaim'd in an atrocious Manner, without being understand; the Honour of the most eminent and most illustrious Approbators very ill treated; finally, if that Condemnation takes Place, there is no Book that can escape Censure. For these Causes, the Then follows the Appeal, and was sign'd the 5th of March, 1717.

Hague, March 16. Baron Heeys the Emperor's Envoy, labours incessantly to bring about an Accommodation between the States and the Elector of Cologne, and there is good Appearance of Success, seeing that he has already brought his Royal Highness to consent, 1. To raze entirely the Citadel of Huy. 2. To demolish those Works of the Citadel of Liege, that were made during the late War. 3. To raze the Outworks of the City of Bonne. 4. To give Satisfaction to the States by a Letter of Civility, conceived in the most obliging Terms. 5. To satisfie M. Coetier for the 800 Crowns that he demands. And 6. To permit the States to keep a Garrison in the Fort of St. Peters, reserving to himself the Territorial Rights, and all other Jurisdiction upon the Ground the said Fort is built upon, and all round about it, which he pretends to as Prince and Bishop of Liege. What seems still to retard this Agreement, is that the States demand, upon the second Article, That the Battions of the Citadel made before the War, and still remaining on the Country side, should be razed. Upon the Third, That the Subjects of the Body of the Town of Bonne, shall be annihilated, and that the Courtesies to join'd with all other Towns. Upon the 5th, That the Officers who were at Bonne, have also from the Elector upon their Presentations. And upon the 6th, That his Electoral Highness spend no more of Fort St. Peters. This Accommodation seems therefore near upon being made up: And as soon as it's done, his said Electoral Highness will send a Minister to reside here, to maintain a good Correspondence and Amity with their Dutch Neighours, as all Appearance be earnestly driv'n to.
